Lace Pottery Featured in Southern Living Magazine

Kernersville, NC - November 25, 2009 - Maggie Weldon's Lace Pottery collection is featured in the December 2009 edition of Southern Living magazine. A photograph of the Remembrance Bowl design (pictured below) is displayed on page 22 as part of a section called "Best of the South | Made by Southern Hands." The issue is currently available on newsstands.

Southern Living is a widely-circulated magazine aimed at readers in the Southern United States. The first issue was published in 1966 and it has become the largest regional lifestyle publication in the United States. The magazine features information about Southern culture and travel, recipes, house plans and more. Part of the magazine is available at www.southernliving.com.

The Lace Pottery collection combines Maggie Weldon's 25 years of crochet experience with handmade pottery. Each piece is delicately designed using fine porcelain clay and handmade doilies. The doilies are pressed into the clay and removed before the piece is fired in a kiln. The finished products feature the impression of the lace and are available in a variety of colors and styles. Prices range from $7 to $600.

Lace Pottery can be purchased online at www.lacepottery.com or by visiting the gallery in person. Lace Pottery Gallery in Kernersville, NC is open to the public Monday through Friday from 10am until 5pm and Saturday from 10am until 2pm. All other times are by appointment only. Group tours are available upon request.

Lace Pottery provides special services to its customers including custom orders and wedding cake plates. Lace Pottery can create a personalized piece to be made from a family's heirloom doily.
